THE ATTACK ON THE SHORE DRIVE COM-MISSION INSPIRED BY M. J. DADY.

HE IS ANGRY WITH MR. KENNEDY AND HIS AS SOCIATES ON ACCOUNT OF FAILURE TO GET THE CONTRACT NOW BEING CARRIED OUT BY CHARLES HART-A POLITICAL RECORD BASED ON BIG JOBS.

The responsibility for the introduction of the bill to remove the Shore Road Commiss en fixed squarely upon the shoulders of Michael J. Dady. It was known that Mr. Dady was at Albany when Senator Wleman put in the bill, and a report was current that he had threatened to have the Commission removed. Yesterday the otives behind Dady's hostility to the Commission

The Commission, of which Elijah R. Kennedy is president, made a contract some time ago with Cody Brothers for work on the Shore Drive. This firm, according to Mr. Kennedy, failed to live up to the terms of their agreement, and George Fruh, an-another contractor, was appointed to carry on the work. Early this month Fruh got into serious trouble with Moses Cahen & Son, of Canal-st., over his failure to meet several of his notes held by them. Fruh had to give up his contract, and Michael J. Dady announced that he wanted it and intended to get it. Mr. Kennedy was not impressed by Dady's demand, and gave the work to Charles Hart, who is now carrying out the contract as satisfactorily as possible for this time of the year.

When he heard that Hart had secured the contract, Dady remarked that as soon as the Legislature began operations he would see who would get the work. He enlisted the aid of Senator Wieman, who on Friday introduced the bill abolishing the present Commission and substituting for it a bi-partisan commission. The offence charged against the present Commission is its barsh treatment of the contractors. In Mr. Dady's mind, its offence is its barsh treatment of himself. The Commission has insisted that the men who hold its contracts should fulfil their agreements to the letter, tody Brothers could not do their work as rapidly as they agreed to, and the Commission forced them to stop. Mr. Fruh brought trouble upon himself by his dealings with pawnbrokers, and is now awaiting treatment at the hands of the Court. Mr. Hart, who is now in charge of the improvements, is satisfying the Commission in every particular.

Mr. Dady's interest in the Wieman bill is not purely personal. He expects to open the way for a lavish distribution of patronige by putting a bi-partisan commission in power, and when it is remarked that he is now one of Platt's most loyal adherents in Brookyn, and that he was a Demo-cral not many years ago, it is not difficult to guess who are to be the beneficiaries of the measure in the party.

Legislature abolishing the Commission, but it was vetoed by Mayor Wurster.

Mr. Kennedy and his associates on the Commission are watching the tale of the Wieman bill with complacency Said Mr. Kennedy vesteriny;

"If we are re-noved, we shall understand the reacon why. Dady said some time ago that he would have us removed as soon as the Legislature was ready to act, and I suppose he is now furfilling his threat. He asked us to give him the contract held by George Frith, and we declared to do so. I suppose that is the act for watch we must be punished.

pose that is the act for which we must be punished."

Dady has a reputation for determining his political affiliations by those of the public officials who have the giving out of hig contracts for city work. In 1833 he worked and voted against Charles A. Schleren, the Republican candidate for Mayor, and in the interests of John Y. M. Kane, whose term in Sing Sing is now marring its end. In 1834 he became a Republican once more and joined the factional forces of Thomas C. Platt and Jacob Worth, who was then Platt's Kings County Reutemant. In 1834 his name was about to be proposed for membership in the Unian League Club, but he was persuaded to wiffidraw it because of the prospect that he would be blackballed. After Frederick W. Wurster became Mayor, Dady abandoned Worth and joined the clement headed by Theodore B. Willis, Mayor Wurster's Commissioner of City Works. Last fall he was a leader in the Platt fight to down Worth and in the Tracy campaign. He is now Lieuremant-Governor Woodruff's candidate for chairman of the Republican Executive Committee.

POUND DEAD IN BED YESTERDAY WITH HER

THROAT CUT-A RAZOR CLASPED IN HER FOLDED HANDS.

Miss Edna May Chase, a teacher in Public School No. 16, in Wilson-st, and a member of Plymouth Church, was found by her mother yesterday morning in bed with her throat cut. A razor was clasped tightly in her hands, which were folded over her breast. The young woman was dead. Miss Chase was the daughter of John B. Chase, a well-known resident of Willow-st., on the Heights. She was a handsome woman, about twenty-three years old. Her mother was much shocked when she found her daughter, and it was with difficulty that her friends could draw her away from the sad one. Dr. Ray, who lives near by, was summoned, but he could do nothing. He said that the woman had undoubtedly cut her throat some time in the early morning.

Miss Chase spent the evening of Friday in her mother's company at home, taking lightly of the day's incidents in her school. There was nothing in her manuer which would indicate that she was contemplating taking her life. When she retired at 19:30 o'clock, she said, 'Don't forget to call me Bearing in mind her daughter's wish, Mrs. Chase went upstairs about 7.20 o'clock yesterday morning. After knocking, and receiving no response, she opened the door and went to arouse the daughter. The piercing screams she uttered summoned other members of the family.

Deputy-foroner Kelly was sent for by Dr. Ray, and went to the house to make an examination. Mrs. Chase told him that her daughter had left no letter which would give a clew to her reasons for taking her life. The mother said, however, that the daughter had felt keenly the death of her sister, which took place about eleven months ago. The two girls were inseparable companions, and Edna had never been the same since her sister's death.

"I know that she killed herself because she wanted to join her sister," said Mrs. Chase.

GATHERED ABOUT THE TOWN.

The body which was found recently in a harn that had been burned, at Hyde Park, Long Island, is now supposed to be that of Guldo Muller, twentyone years old, the son of Professor Gustave Muller, of Konkorkoma. Professor Muller, who recently moved from Manhattan, received a letter from his son in Jamaica on Thursday, in which the son said that he was tired of life. The boay found in the barn at Hyde Park was too badly burned to be identified.

Troop C. N. G. N. Y., which is one of the most popular military organizations in Brooklyn, gave a mounted exhibition in its armory, in North Portland-ave, last evening. Captain B. T. Clayton commanded. A large gathering was present to witness the manogures.

The police of Brooklyn are hunting for Pearl Hendrickson, the thirteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Samuel Hendrickson, of No. 380 Halsey-st., who in the summer months runs the Rossmore Hotel, at Sen Cliff, Long Island. Mrs. Hendrickson says that she believes her husband, who has left her, has taken the child. Albert Ammerman, of the Cowperthwalt Company, who has been ill at his home, No. 150 South foliatt Place, was said to be much better yesterday Mrs. H. C. Buil, of Fifty-seventh-st. and Eleventh-ave, while returning from a meeting in the Blythebourne Methodist Church on Friday after-noon, was thrown out of her carriege and sustained a fracture of the arm.

IN HIS BRAIN.

SUICIDE-HEAD OF THE MARSTON REMEDY COMPANY AND WEIGHED DOWN BY

BUSINESS TROUBLES. J. B. Stillwell, proprietor of the Marston Remedy Company, at No. 19 Park Place, Manhattan, and a member of the Hanover Club, Brooklyn, shot himself in the temple last Thursday at his home, No. 30 Garden Place, Brooklyn, under circumstances that raise a doubt as to whether the shooting was accidental or intentional. Mr. Stillwell asserts that it was an accident. His condition was such last night that his death was looked for within twenty-

According to the statement made by Mr. Stillwell to the physicians, he was seated in his bedroom at 11 o'clock Thursday morning examining a revolver.

"I was handling it in a somewhat careless manner," he said, "when it was discharged and the bullet entered my right temple."

Then, Mr. Stillwell said, he continued to sit in his easy chair with the bullet in his brain. He raised no cry. The other members of the family were in a distant part of the house, and had heard no shot. It was nearly two hours after the revolver went off that Mrs. Stillwell entered the room to learn why her husband had not come down to dinner. She was greatly shocked at seeing him seated in the chair with the right side of his face covered with blood. He explained in a feeble voice what had happened, and she sent a member of the household for a doctor.

Dr. L. J. Morton, at No. 303 Henry-st., was the nearest physician, and he was summoned, although he was not the family physician. Dr. Morton did what he could to relieve his patient. He quickly learned that the bullet was buried in Mr. Stillwell's brain, and that there was little hope for him.

When asked yesterday why he had not reported the matter to the Coroner, Dr. Morton said that he considered the case an accident and was thus under no obligation to report to the Coroner

Mr. Stillweil is past middle age and was a prosperous business man. Lately he had suffered from reverses. For the last five years his friends say his business affairs have weighed heavily on his mind. He bought the business of the Marston Remedy Company several years ago. His sons were engaged in business with him, and about a year ago differences arose be tween the father and sons, and since then Mr. Stillwell has been much worried. Some of his friends say they have heard him threaten to take his life and say that the cares of his busiress were so heavy that he would end them by they do but a fraction of the real worth and quality, shape, make, jumping from a ferryboat.

Several of his business friends felt such sympathy for his troubles that it is said they were arranging to give him material assistance in arranging to give him material assistance in straightening his affairs.

Four or five weeks ago Mr. Stillwell's business was placed in the bands of Vincent G. Hamili as receiver. The chief creditor is the Nassau Benk, to which he owes $3,000.

Mr. Stillwell lived in the Eastern District, Picoklyn, for a number of years. He occupied anyon a flat opposite the Hanover Club. Several months ago he moved to Harlem, and only a few weeks ago he moved to Garden Place.

A daughter of Mr. Stillwell answered the doorbell yesterday and said that her father was on the road to recovery. Dr. Morton, on the contrary, said that he could recover only through a miracle.

The DEATH OF HER SISTER.

The Rev. Dr. John Coleman Adams, pastor of All Souls' Universalist Church, was hurriedly summoned to the house on Friday.

This case has points of similarity with the recent suicide of W. B. Kendall, who lived not far from the Stillwells, in First Place.

TOO MUCH MONEY ON HAND.

THE BROOKLYN SAVINGS BANK RE-DUCES ITS RATE OF INTEREST.

ONLY THREE AND ONE HALF PER CENT WILL BE ALLOWED BEREAFTER THE EAST BROOKLYN INSTITUTION ALSO LOWERS ITS RATE.

For the first time in a number of years the Brooklyn Savings Bank has paid 312 per cent inter-Four per cent interest has prevailed among Brooklyn banks for a good many years. Therefore there was great surprise on the part of the depositors of the Pierrepont-st. Institution when they dropped in after January 1 to get the interest entered in their bankbooks and were told that it was to be at the rate of only No per cent a year.

Another bank that declared only 312 per cent interest was the East Brooklyn Savings Bank, at Myrtle and Franklin aves Darwin R. James is president of this institution.

The other banks declared a 4 per cent dividend, except the Germania and Bushwick, which pay but 3 per cent on deposits in excess of $1,000, and several banks which pay less than 4 per cent on amounts in excess of $3,000. This downward tendency in interest is undoubtedly due to an over-supply and under-demand for money in Brooklyn. The Brooklyn Savings Hank is one of the largest and strongest institutions of its kind in Brooklyn. In its January 1 statement its resources were given as aggregating $35,330,136 46 and its surplus as $2,788,355 90. There was due depositors $32,541,776 56. Felix E. Flandreau, cashler of the Brooklyn Savings Bank, said, when visited by a Tribune reporter

"Our trustees are quite conservative, and thought It wiser to reduce the rate of interest on deposits to 314 per cent, as the best we can buy bonds at la

3 to 3% per cent. A number of years ago, possibly about fifteen, this bank reduced the interest to 3 per cent, because the supply of money was in excess of the demand."

"There seems to be a general downward tendency in interest at present. Do you consider this an evidence of an improvement in the times?" was asked.

"It seems to be an evidence of a lack of demand for money, and I should think indicates hard times. The fact is, no new enterprises are starting, and everybody is living from hand to mouth.

"Money is very plentiful. The New-York Central has refunded some bonds at 3½ per cent. Most railroad bonds have hitherto been paying 5 and 6 per cent. People of intelligence come to us to have us place their money for them—people who ought to be able to place their own money." "Did you have many withdrawals of deposits as a result of your cut?"

"Our withdrawals were a little larger than usual the first of this year. I can't say what the cause of it was."

"Does not the fact that there is so much money seeking investment indicate a feeling of searching in the seeking investment indicate a feeling of searching in the seeking investment indicate a feeling of searching in the search in the

of it was."

"Does not the fact that there is so much money seeking investment indicate a feeling of security. Is it not a reaction from the scare and money tightness of the Bryan campaign?

"It is true that money was locked up at that time, and I think there is a feeling of security now. There is so much money aftout that it has caused a downward tendency in interest. It may go up again. But if conditions remain as they are all the banks will have to reduce their rate of interest."

It was said by an employe of the bank that it had been getting more money than it could invest.

Annual White Shirt Sale.

Thousands saw the steam lift the kettle lid and the apple fall to the ground, but they waited until James Watt and Isaac Newton seized the opportunity and utilized the unnoticed forces. Like the alertness of these great men the watchful housewife is quick to call her husband's attention to the advantages and great savings afforded by our Annual White Shirt Sale. We do better every year because we strive to do better. Months of preparation, no detail overlooked, the latest improvements in every shirt and night shirt, little conveniences that seem small to the manufacturer but large to the wearer. Just as particular with the manufacturing of the low priced shirts, as the regular stock, pure linen bosoms, re-enforced back and front, all seams felled, split neck band and continuous facings. Think of getting up-to-date improvements in a 28cts. shirt, and sizes to fit all kinds of men and boys. As for the night shirts they are large and full, all seams felled, the yokes plaited back, full neck bands, good pearl buttons, fast coloring in the fancy embroideries and every detail tasty and aristocratic. We could use forceful adjectives about this sale that might seem to you exaggeration and yet be perfectly true, but the sale is for your benefit, and is better than anything we have ever had. The latter is a well-known feepublican of the Twenty-ninth Ward, and his friends say that he is thoroughly acceptable to all the Republican leaders. The new Judge will have a hard task until the overburdened calendar is cleared up, little having been done since Judge Tenney's death early in December. Mr. Waldo is about forty years old, and a lawyer by profession.
